

Haunted House of Fitness

By: George Walker

Do you like haunted houses? Do you like P.E.? If you do, you will probably like the Haunted House of fitness.

The Haunted House of Fitness is an activity in P.E. It starts October 23 and ends November 1. It happens during the students' P.E. time. There is the spider wall (the rock wall), the snake pit (the balance beam), the graveyard alley (scooters), the bat cave (a maze), and other surprises.

The surprises are the pumpkin jump (a ball with a handle that you jump on), a climbing rope, a ghost screen (a dancing spot), the witch's cauldron (a bean bag toss), and pumpkin bowling (a bowling spot).

The commenters were Mr. L. (Fig 1), Justin Long, Savannah, and Harry. Mr. L. told me what was in the Haunted House of Fitness. Savannah said, "It is a holiday P.E. thing. It is only one time a year. Once I think there was a Christmas one." Justin L. said, "I love it! It is so much fun!" Harry said, "People knock things in the bat cave. I think they should take it out." The bat cave is made of folding gymnastic mats for walls and a tarp for a roof. It falls over if you bump into the walls a lot or stand up in it.

Over all, most people like the Haunted House of fitness and can't wait until next year.

Haunted House of Fitness Pictures

Rope climb

Mr. L.

Rock wall

Dance screen

Bean bag toss

Balls

Balance beam

Bat cave

